National Sanatorium to Have Unusual Features.

According to plans announced yesterday, a new institution for Washington Some extraordinary values in will be started in the near future, to washable wearables for summer, be known as the National Benevolent Sanatorium. Behind it is an association bearing the same name, made up of sev-$1.50 and $2.00 neglige coat eral physicians of the city and business men of Washington and vicinity.

A little later on the sanatorium will have a governing board composed of a number of the most prominent clergy men of the city, members of Congress, The association, which was incorporate

The deal was made by Rignald W. Beall, of Moore & Hill, who sold the property for John Q. Dickinson, a well known banker of West Virginia. The property formerly belonged to the estate of the late Alexander F. Matthews, of Lewisburg, Greenbrier County, W. Va. The property was conveyed to Dr. Orlando Ducker, in behalf of the associa-

The Chapin is one of the largest and most attractive of the apartments in the northwest section. It was erected about eight years ago by W. A. Morrison at a cost of $100,000. It is five stories high, contains forty suites of apartments, and has uniformly been filled with tenants. It is 50 by 150 feet and has an alley on one side and in the rear. The building will be somewhat remodeled, to suit the purposes of the association, and be provided with special rooms for laboratory, clinics, surgical operations, and treatment,

Modeled on Cuban Plan.

The plans of the sanatorium association ontemplate founding an institution entirely different from any similar estabshment in the District of Columbia. The entral idea of the sanatorium has been carefully worked out by Dr. Ducker, who was formerly major and surgeon in the service of the United States army. While stationed in Cuba, Dr. Ducker investigated and observed the workings of an institution in Havana, which may be regarded as the prototype of the Washington sanatorium. The main proposition is to secure a large membership in the association. This is to be done by the recepion of members upon the payment of a nominal fee for joining and small monthly dues. To members of good standing the sanatorium affords—care and treaement during illness. In this way the sanatorium will be a beneficial institution. The best said, it would be the aim of the management of the managemen ominal fee for joining and small monthly oual to that to be obtained in any hos- kindnes pital, without the payment of large fees, it a time when the patient is helpless and kept from his active duties.

"Third-To foster and ecourage thrift, sobriety, and self-reliance. "Members must apply in person when ill, but in case their illness is not such as to enforce confinement to the building, they may be treated from day to day.

Joiners Must Be Healthy, "Either sex may become members, the age limit being from three years to fiftyfive years. Each applicant for member ship must be free, at the time, from acute or chronic ailment, such as to disqualify him from active duties. Each

mber must agree to abide by the rules

nd regulations of the sanatorium." Dr. Ducker, in explaining the purposes of the sanatorium last night, said that the payment of small monthly dues, within the reach of persons of moderate means, was all that was required to keep members in good standing. He sald the primary object of the institution was to do good, though it was not a charitable institution, not receiving or dispensing charity. He said it was the hope of the founders to earn a fair return upon the investment, but it was not a scheme to make money. It would not conflict with the private practice of any physician, as each doctor summoned to attend a patient would be paid by the association. He said t would not conflict with any existing ospital or other institution, as its pri-
